Comfort is now one of the causes of its own spread. It has now become a physical habit, a fashion, an ideal to be pursued for its own sake.

The more comfort and discomfort are a real torture. The fashion is quite as imperious as any other fashion. Enormous (1) interests are bound up with the supply of the means of comfort. The manufacturers of (2) heating apparatus of plumbing fixtures cannot afford to let the love of comfort die. In modern (3) they have found a means for compelling it to live and grow. A man of means today who builds a house, is concerned primarily with his future comforts. He will spend a great deal of money on bathrooms (4) apparatus furnishings and having spent he will regard his house as perfect. At an earlier age man (5) more importance to beauty than comfort. The money our contemporary would spend on baths and central heating would have been spent on marble staircases, pictures and statues. Orientals and even South (6) who know not comfort and live very much as our ancestors did centuries ago seem to go on very well without elaborate apparatus and padded luxuries. However, comfort for me has a justification in (7) mental life. Discomfort handicaps thoughts, it is difficult to use the mind when the body is cold and aching.
